Weekly Summary

Compared to last week's closing market, all weight class price averages weighing from 500 lbs and down ended fully $5 to $8 higher while those classes over 500 lbs showed $3 to $4 stronger. Slaughter cow demand today again continued to remain strong, and it appeared the packers are still gathering inventory using their current figures. Slaughter bulls witnessed about a $4 gain.

With all the rains we have been receiving, most of the Central US continues to suffer from drought conditions. The market continues to thrive because of a bullish supply side but it could be facing some headwinds due to cheaper pork prices and retailers considering pork as its main feature for the upcoming Memorial Holidays.

COMMENTS -

Packer cows and bulls 5 dollars higher than last week. As the green grass makes its arrival, stock cows gain a little more momentum every week. Several fancy fall bred cows reach $1500, higher than some of todays plainer pairs. Quality cattle on the cow and yearling side of things trump plain cattle by a land slide with todays market. Yearling cattle trended 5-10 dollars higher this week. We appreciate everyones business!

THANKS TO EVERYONE! WE APPRECIATE YOU!
