Weekly Summary

Compared to last week's ending market, the lighter classes of both feeder steers and heifers' price average price averages ended mostly uneven to $4 lower. The heavier classes from 400 lbs and up showed to be firm to steady with last week's closing figures. Slaughter cows and bulls again show good demand and posted solid figures compared with last week.

The market continues to be resilient even after last Friday's report showed a unexpected heavier placement figures. Higher corn due to parts of the corn belt noticeably drier have also shown no effect on feeder calf demand and prices as we wrap up June and head into July.

There will be NO sale next Tuesday, July 4th as both cattle companies and packers shut down
We will re-open for the first sale July 11th as usual

Packer cows and bulls mostly steady. Heifer and steer cattle alike were steady to 5 dollars higher on weights under 500 pounds. Mid 5 weight cattle and heavier were 5-7 lower than last week. Outstanding set of ranching cows bring great figures in the stock cow category. Top quality cows and yearlings really spread the gap between them and the plainer end as we get into the hot summer months. No sale next week as we celebrate July the 4th! Keep an eye on our facebook page for upcoming consignments.

THANKS TO EVERYONE! WE APPRECIATE YOU!
